

A person is walking away from the camera down a path in a forest. The ground is covered in fallen autumn leaves. The trees are tall and thin, with some having orange and red leaves. The atmosphere is misty and the lighting is warm, suggesting a sunrise or sunset. The person is silhouetted against the bright light at the end of the path.

BAND BIO

"This is a song I wrote lyrically to remind myself not to dwell in the dark places of my past but to take a step of faith into the light each day I walk this Earth. Lots of intricate guitars and drums that will bring you to a unique atmosphere called, The Shade."

These are the thoughts on the latest single 'The Shade' from The Finite Beings lead singer Michael Nicholas.

The Shade arrives on the heels of their previous release 'The Virus', which as of this printing is flirting with over 80k Spotify streams! Where The Virus contemplated the state of the world after the pandemic arrived, The Shade looks inward to take us on a journey of faith by always searching for the light ahead of us, and in true The Finite Beings fashion, it is a true juxtaposition of both the darkness and light.

With the release of their full-length album 'A Life to Come Renewed', New Jersey trio The Finite Beings, Michael Nicholas (Vocals, lyrics, and drums), Donny DePaola (Guitars), and Hunter King who handles guitars and production hit the music scene in a fresh new way. Taking some of the most impactful parts of the classic genre of music and mixing that familiar sound with their own unique alt-rock style, The Finite Beings have created something truly special to offer today's music scene.

Both The Virus and The Shade can be streamed on most major streaming services.
